Greene County Fair To Be Aug. 1, 2, 3, 4, With Night Exhibitions

Greene County Fair patrons each year, expect this annual event to be "bigger and better". So far they have had just that. Each year the fair grows a bit taller or broadens some, even as the lambs, pigs, and calves and chicks attain their size and conformation.

The fair is alive and astir most of the year. Except for a short time around Christmas, there is activity. Early in January the Ohio Fair Managers meet in conference and from then until the gates are opened to the patrons, the fair is on its way.

The premium list begins with "Speed" and that term could be applied to all departments, as well as to the races. This year racing fans will not want to miss any part of the four days.

The Night Horse Show is planned for still more effective results. The premiums and trophies suggest the type of occasion this will be. The page of thirty four sponsors emphasizes how horse lovers regard this part of the fair. The day time Draft Horse showings will draw crowds as well.

Livestock barns at the fair are always busy, bustling places. This has been augmented by the exhibits of the 4-H Club members, and Vocational Agriculture boys.

More prize money has been designated for Sheep this year.

A new class has been added to the Swine department, the Hereford.

The Ohio State Hampshire Show returns to Xenia again, and this time it is bringing the Ohio Junior Hampshire Show. Twenty prizes lure the youngsters in this show.

Rabbits and Cavies are to make their bow in the Poultry department, but the chickens, turkeys, ducks, geese and turkeys will be there too.

In the Art Hall will be things of interest from applique to antiques. A special Garden Club Show, planned by the Garden Clubs of Greene County, will include things worth seeing and doing.

Food has never had more luster than now and the displays of canned and fresh fruits and vegetables will run close competition with the Granges and Jr. Grange exhibits.

It should be a "bigger and better" fair for each year's exhibition adds another layer of experience for the countless ones who help to make it a good show. Each year increases the neighborly feeling among the country people. This year we are all trying more than usual to produce and conserve our food. It is another salute to the stars in the windows, to the honor rolls in churches and on the town squares. The County Fair is another sort of "home" institution worth fighting for and worth working for that it may continue to grow.

FIFTH WAR BOND DRIVE TO END SATURDAY NIGHT

Greene county still needed $300,000 for the War Bond drive to meet the quota of $2,000,000 according to reports, Wednesday. The bond sales stood at 88 per cent of the quota and the campaign is to end officially Saturday.

Since the opening of the campaign there have been 21,793 individual bond purchases in the county according to Judge F. L. Johnson, chairman of the War Finance Committee. Greene county was one of the first in the state to meet its quota of "B" bond sales. Those who have not made purchases or can make additional investment can get bonds at the post office or the Cedarville Federal Savings & Loan Association.

PASTURE FIRE

A field of hay and stubble on the Walter Andrew farm, near the Zimmerman farm on the O'Connell road, partially burned last Sunday morning. It spread over about half of the field when neighbors managed to whip it out. No reason is given other than a cigarette may have been tossed from a passing automobile. These are dangerous days for fires.

BE ON ALERT FOR CHOLERA

Last year hog producers took the heaviest loss from hog cholera ever known in its history. Flies seem to be responsible for much of the trouble and an increasing number of outbreaks may be expected with the coming hot weather. Usually the disease reaches the maximum just before frost and hog producers who have not immunized, are urged to be on the alert from now on.

WHEAT SCAB PRESENT

Wheat scab while not as serious as last year, has reduced the yield of wheat in some fields this year. This disease produces prematurely yellow heads and shriveled wheat kernels.

The same fungus causes stalk and ear rots of corn. It lives over winter in corn stubble and, with favorable weather, will spread to either wheat or barley which follows corn. Wet weather immediately after the wheat heads out is likely to result in scab infection in fields where wheat follows corn.

Scabby wheat is less suitable for milling and brings a lower price than sound wheat. Feeding tests indicate it can be fed to all types of livestock and poultry and has essentially the same feeding value as sound wheat.

SEEDLINGS IN CORN NEED RAIN

Many farmers are sowing green manure and hay crops in corn. The seed is broadcast after the last cultivation and since corn yields are relatively free of weeds this year, it is possible to make the seedlings early. At least a half inch of rain is necessary after seeding to insure a stand.

The list of crops likely to make successful stands in corn are limited. Alfalfa on suitable soil is more likely to make a crop than any other legume. Yellow sweet clover has produced good stands in corn for both over crops and green manure.

Rye grasses are well adapted for seeding in corn. A mixture of 10 lbs. of yellow sweet clover and 10 lbs. of rye grass has produced good stands. Rye grass is a fairly consistent producer and hairy vetch gives good stands and makes an excellent green manure crop. It is allowed to grow until at least May 15, the next spring.

SUCKERING CORN DON'T PAY

Suckering sweet corn and pruning sweet potato vines does not pay. Besides taking a lot of time it actually reduces the yield of these vegetables since the removal of a portion of the tops of the plant cuts down on the manufacture of plant foods. Neither is it profitable to lift sweet potato vines that have started to root along the stem.

On the other hand the pruning of tomatoes and cucumbers has some merit. By removing the side shoots of tomatoes and the tips of the lateral stems of cucumbers, it is possible to grow two or three times as many plants in any given space. There is also a larger number of fruits on the remaining stem of the plants.

LET'S REDUCE COMBINE LOSSES

Lots of wheat will be combined this week and G. W. McCuen, agricultural engineer of Ohio State University urges combine owners to keep grain losses down. He states that losses occur at the cutter bar, the cylinder and the rack or shoe.

Combines that are overlooked by operating them too fast or by cutting too much straw will not separate a high percentage of the grain, and losses of grain at the rack and shoe often run a whole lot higher than the amount wasted at the cutter bar or the cylinder.

ORDER YOUR WHEAT FERTILIZER NOW

Order your fertilizer now for wheat seeding. The fertilizer industry is bucking a sizable problem with the acute shortage of labor and transportation. At present the grades of fertilizer that can be mined and shipped immediately and still stay in condition for drilling, are given preference.

FARM SAFETY WEEK JULY 22

July 22, has been proclaimed the day of National Farm Safety Week by President Roosevelt. Word about the proclamation points out the work on farm safety being carried on by 4-H Club members in Ohio and throughout the nation.

Accident and fire prevention surveys and studies are an important part of the 1944 Four-H Club program. And while youthful rural Ohioans are checking up on the cause of farm accidents and fires, they are carrying on the work started last year. Last year farm boys and girls made close to 8000 accident surveys.

Council Asks Bids On Street Improvement

Council met Monday evening and outlined a three-year plan for street repair in the village and will discontinue the "patch here and there" method of the past. Many streets are breaking up due to the fact it has been more than three years since they have been given a hard surface.

The cost naturally will be more than in former years due to labor but some of the streets cannot go through another winter without a heavy coat of rebuilding.

By adopting the three-year plan it will give the streets treatment where only one coat will be necessary. The following year it will be possible to rebuild a street that has not yet been hardsurfaced.

Xenia ave., Chillicothe and S. Main streets will be treated by the State Highway Department as they are parts of routes 72 and 42.

The mayor's receipts for the month amounted to $185.

AUCTIONEER CHARGED WITH

VIOLATING HITLER RULE

Guy W. Katzenberger, 49, Green-ville, auctioneer, faces a federal indictment for "knowing and willingly" selling 1,000 bushels of corn at $1.19 a bushel when the OPA (Hitler) ceiling price is $1.11. A warrant has been issued for his arrest and the sale was made April 18th. He is out on bond of $1,000. The fact the farmer owning the corn and the buyer were satisfied with the transaction makes no difference under the New Deal brand of democracy in what we know as America. Dark county has been a Democratic county for years but went over to the Republicans at the last election on the New Deal issue. The last chapter makes it double sure of the largest Republican vote in the history of the county which means much to carrying the entire Republican ticket in the state this fall. There are probably a thousand farmers in Greene county that are willing to either sell or pay $1.19 a bushel for corn today.

COMMITTEEMAN

A Federal Court in a Pennsylvania case instructed a jury to bring a verdict of acquittal of a similar case on the ground the OPA had not made a case with sufficient evidence.

Tuesday, Herbert Brownell, Jr., chairman of the National Committee, named the Executive Committee which had been approved by Govs. Dewey and Bricker. In the list Mr. Brown is named as a member of the executive committee that will direct the campaign this summer and fall. The committee comprises 15 members from different parts of the country. One member is Ralph H. Calk, Oregon, who managed Wendell Willkie's campaign.

HOW HOUSE SEAT FELL TO DR. MCCHESNEY

Here is a piece of news that we are at liberty to publish for the first time and it will be interesting to those who follow political trends and citizens in general.

The late Robert D. Williamson, who had served a number of terms in the Ohio legislature as a member of the House, desired to retire following a break in his health. He had been advised by his physician that it would be best to retire even though he had filed for another nomination.

Two years previous the name of Dr. W. R. McChesney had been mentioned by a number of citizens in Xenia for the same seat but he would not consider running against his good friend, "R. D."

Mr. Williamson drove to Cedarville to discuss withdrawal with the writer and also to consider who would be available for the post in case he withdrew. We suggested Dr. McChesney, knowing that some of his Xenia friends had proposed his name at one time as one fully qualified for the House seat. Mr. Williamson replied the Dr. was the man he had in mind as his successor but was undecided as to the method of approach, there being but a few days left when a candidate could file in the primary.

The writer got in touch with Dr. McChesney at the noon hour and he was given the information. Not having up to that time given the matter any consideration, he wanted to talk to Mrs. McChesney and a few friends. Knowing some of the kinks and turns in politics we urged him to keep his considerations wholly with his wife for if it became known that Mr. Williamson was wanting to retire, there would be other candidates. The Dr. kept his counsel to his family and the next day wanted to meet Mr. Williamson and that date was fixed for this office. The two went over the plans and both the writer and Mr. Williamson urged the Dr. to get out his petitions at once and have them filed before the closing date. Mr. Williamson had agreed to keep his name on the ballot until after it was too late for another petition to be filed. A week or ten days later he announced through the press withdrawal as a candidate due to poor health, of which the public was aware.

Following the completion of arrangements between Williamson and McChesney, the former in shaking the latter's hand, stated: "Dr. it is my only hope that you can serve this county in the legislature longer than I have and as long as you live."

Mr. Williamson had his wish fulfilled for Dr. McChesney passed away while a member of the House. Mr. Williamson was an outstanding farmer and nationally known live stock breeder and a member of the State Board of Agriculture and his leadership in the legislature gave this county a prominent place in Ohio affairs. The county had a worthy successor in Dr. McChesney who was known in the educational world as a leader. His influence on the platform and on the pulpit or the political platform gave Greene county recognition of equal if not far more extended service to the state than did Mr. Williamson, yet both were leaders in their respective fields and the county will always be proud of their records.

Both Mr. Williamson and Dr. McChesney agreed there should be no publicity of the withdrawal of the one for the other and we agreed there would be none as long as either lived.

We do not consider the publication of this piece of local news a violation of the trust the two men put on us as we have kept the faith as long as both lived and that was one of Mr. Williamson's wishes that he could be succeeded by his close friend so long as he lived. There certainly is nothing that pays higher dividends in friendships than keeping faith with ones friends and associates. We might review another similar experience between two candidates for office but now is not the time nor place and it might never be put in black and white for public review.

FRIDAY, JULY 7, 1944

We have reason to be extremely thankful for the many expressions received as a result of the Republican National Convention held last week in Chicago and of our opportunity to not only be present but to have a small part in such an important gathering and the purpose for which it was held. The many comments we have received as to our "first vacation", the first since it was founded in 1877, have been appreciated.

With Dewey in the White House and Bricker as the vice president more than in official title, Americans rest assured the War will be conducted from this side of the Atlantic and not taking orders from either Churchill or Stalin. The new regime will co-operate but will not become puppets to the English royalty nor will they throw open the doors of the U. S. treasury to the foreigners at the expense of the American income tax-payers. Nothing being done today. There is every indication that victory of last week in Chicago for both Dewey and Bricker will be reaffirmed next November, not alone by Republicans but independent voters, and Democratic voters who know that the future of their own party lies in the defeat of Roosevelt and Wallace.

The public generally has expressed approval of the nominations at Chicago last week. To make success possible it will be necessary for everyone to stand behind the Republican nominees, who are pledged to bring the boys home once victory is assured. With Dewey and Bricker at the helm your son or that of your neighbor will no longer be taking orders from Churchill and Stalin. Roosevelt preaches a World state backed with American dollars and American boys in uniform. It was evident that the recent convention did not approve of such a plan. It was also plain that Chicago, a Democratic city, opposes the Roosevelt plan and endorses the pledges of nominees Dewey and Bricker.

The New Dealers have pictured Argentine as an open sympathizer of Hitler. Threats made against that country by the White House have had no effect. Argentine was to be boycotted by Roosevelt and Hull but England still purchased Argentine beef for our soldiers over there. Last week the New Dealers told us that Argentina had 100,000 bushels of Argentine corn while there are millions of bushels of Argentine grown corn in storage in this country but not at $1.07 a bushel, OEA fined prices. Just how bad does Roosevelt and Hull hate Argentine or do they have a spite at the American farmer? When are the New Dealers right and when are they wrong?

day week as one method of holding to the present high wages. This raises a new issue for all classes of business. It would mean war wages in peacetime. The CIO wants their plan adopted by the political parties but it is not likely the nation will approve of a continued war and slaughter of our boys by the 24,000 as announced in one sector last week, just to keep up war production going and upholding war wages. Take a look at an order from the McNutt branch of the crackpot institute in Washington. Industry and retail stores cannot employ one man without going through the United States Employment Service.
